VIEWS NORTH CAPE. SWEDEN

Miss Perle Stinson and Party Visit the Land of the Midnight Sun.

Extracts from a letter written by Miss Perle Stinson, now touring Europe, to the folks at home.

Berlin, Germany, Aug. 1, 1911.
Dear Folks at Home—

Well, here I am at my writing again. Writing is not much in my line, especially while travelling, but when there is nothing else to do I have to take my pen to something, and so at this present moment will take it out on paper.

Of course you don't have to read it, but you can't help but receive it, if the mail carries straight.

Received a letter from Jeanette Adair, and she had written me four letters and I only got this one.

I think it is a shame for any of the letters to miscarry when I want them so badly, for that is the only way I have of keeping in touch with the U S A, except I go to the Am Ex Co and read the papers.

They have New York, Washington, Chicago and St Louis papers, and so in that way we keep track of the current events.

No, I did not get your letter directed to North Cape, Sweden, but think that is the only one from you that I did not get. There is nothing at North Cape but a little hut, and I think the occupants are only there during the summer, to sell post cards, etc.

The cape is a high mountain, and very steep, but everyone wanted to climb to the top, the better to see the "midnight sun." Our boat anchored there from 10 p m until 2 a m, so we had four hours to go up and back. It was raining as hard as it could and the rocks were slippery, so a good many backed out. Tiera said it was silly to try it, but since coming over here I have become quite famous as a climber; so I thought if I couldn't see the sun shine I could at least climb to the top, so I started. When about half way up I met people coming back, but I went on. After awhile I looked back and there was Tiera coming, too.

Two Mr Gibbons from Argentine Republic, and a man from Spain and one from Austria, went up along near me. At one place the senior Mr Gibbons said he had no use for the people to be found everywhere selling post cards and other trinkets that one had no use for. It would be lots more sensible for them to be stationed every little way with a barrel of "puff," for that was what he needed in climbing hills.

He was quite stout and I suppose that was one reason he needed "puff." They had ropes stretched by the steepest places and we had to draw ourselves up by them, but finally we reached the top, and I was the sixth one up, and Tiera was a little later.

Some men had helped her, too. Out of the crowd of five hundred people I think there were only about fifty who got clear to the top. Going down was almost as bad—had to be so careful not to slip and fall. Mr Gibbons Jr slipped and dropped his stick and could not find it again, so he kept slipping all the way. Such a wet, dirty, dilapidated crowd, you never saw a worse one. Talk about women's rights, I think when it comes to climbing she should be allowed to wear harem skirts. If we did not see the sun that night, we saw it the next night, as we slept during the day and stayed up most of the night, or rather the time it is usually night, as it did not get dark at all there. It was so cold all the time they had to turn the steam heat on in the boat, and we did get on deck very much, only long enough to get fresh air. Some ladies had their fur coats along and put them on. I wished for mine, and it would have been comfortable for a few days until we got farther south again.

We had several "Sirs" and "Ladies" on board and they seemed like everybody else. Everyone dressed about three times a day and some often, and they always dressed with low neck dresses for dinner in the evening, and as neither Tiera or I had any low neck dresses we felt rather out of style, and the fellows all looked so nice in full dress suits. They dressed as often as the girls. We got real well acquainted with some English people who live in Huddersford, York Co, Eng, and if it hadn't been for them our time would have been pretty dull, for all the most of the people thought of as dress, but I guess that is pretty common to the whole world over.

When we landed at Bergen, Norway, the first thing that met our eyes was the U S flag waving from a ship. And there was the Massachusetts, Indiana and Iowa warships making a cruise and they were stopping there for a couple of days. We talked with some of the officers in at Cook's office and it seemed mighty nice.

The piece of railroad from Bergen to Christiania took sixteen years to build and it has only been in operation two years. It is so very rugged that it cost over $4,000,000 to build it. I think the scenery from Christiania to Stockholm is far prettier—the mountains there are similar to the Rockies in Canada. We saw some fine buildings in both of those cities, they looked so substantial, as if built to last forever.

Copenhagen, in Denmark, is such a clean place, and all the country is kept in such good order, hardly a weed to be seen anywhere. The butter made in Denmark is noted everywhere as being the best and cleanest in the world.

We have a fine place to stay here in Berlin, and I have begun to study the German language. I am going to study for a month at least. We will not get to Munich until the 10th, and will stay there a month. German is to cure for Will Haselgrove, who went to the hospital there for treatment.

The Fuel Supply Needs Attention Only Three Times Each Day

The makers of Cole's Hot Blast Heater guarantee this stove to hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. Your old stove and imitation stoves leak air and waste fuel because they are not air-tight, because they have putty joints.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

—by means of the patented Hot Blast Draft and other patented features which make it tight, doing away with the use of stove putty—requires less attention than any other heater made.

All fuel—Soft Coal, Hard Coal, Lignite, Wood or Corn Cobs—contains a large amount of gas. Fully one-half of the heating power (carbon) in soft coal is gas. This is the part of the fuel this wonderful heater saves, by burning it with the Top Hot Blast Draft. This makes Cole's Hot Blast Heater the most satisfactory, the most economical, the most convenient heater you can buy. Imitations and other styles of stoves allow this gas-half of the coal to pass up the chimney with the smoke, unburned.

Thousands of these stoves are in use and the sale continues to increase year after year.

This heater will give you more comfort than you ever thought possible by using any kind of a stove which uses soft coal for fuel.

Right now is the time to decide and select the size you should have. Come in and see complete line of styles and sizes.

Price $12.00 and upwards—According to Size and Finish.
